BOARD LEADERSHIP MESSAGE

I am honored to be first woman President of the About Face Theatre Board of Directors during such a stirring time in the history of our organization, our community and our nation. We surpassed a major milestone in 2016, celebrating the company's 20th anniversary in a tribute held just after the shocking tragedy at Orlando's Pulse Nightclub. That celebration strengthened the bonds of our entire About Face family and reminded us all how vital this work has been and will continue to be.

Now we grieve the disappointing 2016 election results and contemplate how to move forward. We had hoped to be celebrating the first woman President in our nation's 238 year history and to be exploring new frontiers, but now we must fight to preserve the progress we already fought so hard to achieve. In this national climate, About Face Theatre is even more determined to charge ahead in spite of a backlash against progress. Now, as ever, we count on the powerful forces of the arts to create, to heal, to understand, to transform, to humanize and empower.

We fully re-commit to our founding principle: to champion authentic representation of our community on the stage through the lens of gender identity and sexual orientation – to give voice to those who need to be heard the most and to reach out to those who need to listen the most. This is a necessary and nuanced challenge. Our community is complex, some of us experience different layers of inequality, and people of color have shouldered a disproportionate burden in raising awareness of racial injustice. This is one of the many reasons I am especially proud of the work and leadership of About Face Youth Theatre which sets a standard that inspires our company. The Youth ensemble's 2016 world premiere production of AD HOC [HOME] gained praise from Albert Williams for setting a "standard for diversity in terms of race, gender, and physical type that professional stages would do well to emulate."

Artistic Director Andrew Volkoff's strong 20th Anniversary Season won us extraordinary positive recognition including four Jeff nominations. We will build on these successes with an exciting 21st season that strikes a fascinating balance between paying homage to the past while presenting timely issues. Our Board of Directors continues to expand its membership and we are introducing innovative fundraising strategies. We look forward to deepening our existing relationships, broadening our support and honing our governance skills. We feel love and support from institutions and individuals fueling us with new ideas.

I am proud to lead About Face into a new stage of maturity and growth as we produce work that resonates and raises awareness of queer youth issues. Now, more than ever, it is essential to offer artists a safe forum to create and perform roles that rarely exist, and to provide our youth with a sense of home and community and to nurture their theatrical and activism skills.

We thank you for your ongoing support of this important work.

STAFF LEADERSHIP MESSAGE

Few things are as moving as a birthday or an anniversary and, this past season, we celebrated both in About Face's 20th anniversary season. As one of the few professional LGBTQ theatres left in the nation, it was a significant milestone that we honored throughout the year. We brought together friends and artists from our past, created world premiere theatre, and overshot several fundraising goals – all in all, a great year! It was a thrilling season of looking back, celebrating the present, and looking forward with anticipation to the future!

The first quarter of our season kicked off in style with some very special events. October saw the return of the Black & Tan Supper Club gala, which paid tribute to our 20-year history with a seductive evening of food, drink and jazz at the glamorous InterContinental Hotel. Our popular Out Front reading series took on a retrospective nature this season, leading off in November with the About Face lesbian camp favorite, Pulp, by former Artistic Associate Patricia Kane and playing to two sold-out evenings.

AFT Artistic Associate Philip Dawkins' The Homosexuals returned as December's Out Front entry in a special one-night only reading featuring the entire original cast (including AFT Artistic Associates Patrick Andrews, Scott Bradley, John Francisco, Elizabeth Ledo and Ben Sprunger) that filled the huge auditorium at the Chicago History Museum to capacity. More work from the talented Philip Dawkins hit the stage in January with the world premiere of his bittersweet new comedy, Le Switch, which examined a queer world faced with commitment issues in light of recent marriage equality wins. An enormous success with critics and audiences alike, it featured the work of Artistic Associates Mitchell Fain and Elizabeth Ledo in the cast. Jeff Award voters sat up and took notice as well, nominating the production in three categories: Best New Work, Best Production, and Elizabeth as Best Actress in a Supporting Role.

March saw the Chicago premiere of A. Rey Pamatmat's after all the terrible things i do, a moving, searing portrait of bullying and self-hatred. Set in a working, full-scale bookstore, Chelsea Warren's impressive set won AFT a fourth Jeff nomination last season. Attendees wiggled out over auction items at last season's Wonka Ball held among classic cars and a fully operational beauty salon at Ravenswood Event Center. This always sensational event was again named one of the top parties in Chicago by BizBash. May ushered in our well-received production of The Secretaries, a satirical piece on women in the workplace and the world from the feverish minds of The Five Lesbian Brothers that combined equal parts camp comedy and slasher flick.

Gay Pride Week fittingly coincided with AFT20, our touching, one night only tribute to About Face's theatrical legacy. Held at the Center on Halsted, this magnificent evening of archival video and photos, scenes, songs, and stories celebrated the history of About Face from its birth to its present incarnation. We reunited artists and past supporters as well as all three artistic directors in a truly unique evening to honor AFT and all the incredible work we've done over 20 years.

We finished out our summer with About Face Youth Theatre's ensemble generated piece, Ad Hoc [Home], which explored queer experiences of given family, chosen family, and how families shape our identities. Ad Hoc [Home] played to hundreds of people downtown at the Claudia Cassidy Theater at the beautiful Chicago Cultural Center. Closing out our season in August with a look towards the future, we presented a First DraAFT reading of Artistic Associate Paul Oakley Stovall's compelling drama The Hunted which put an all too human face on the torture and executions of gay men in Baghdad.

Leading this company through its 20th season has been gratifying and humbling, but reaching this milestone is a notable achievement for which one person alone cannot take credit. Thanks for its success must go chiefly to the incredible staff that keeps this organization going strong. Additional thanks go to the board who believe in the mission and values we have as a cultural institution, the artists and youth who constantly inspire us, and our numerous community partners, donors and supporters. We couldn't achieve what we have without all of you!

I'm so proud of the work we've achieved and the incredible progress we've made, both as a theatre and as a community. But as I write this, I'm aware of the need – now, more than ever – for an LGBTQIA theatre. We need About Face to light up the darkness, to tell our diverse stories, to provide community and a safe space for our young artists, and to provoke, entertain, reassure, and enlighten audiences. We will remain resilient and strong. As always, I thank you for your support and patronage and look forward to seeing you at the theatre.

Sincerely,

Andrew Volkoff
Artistic Director

2015/16 EDUCATIONAL OUTREACH

About Face Youth Theatre is an identity-affirming theatre activism program. LGBTQIA youth and their allies ages 14-23 explore and expand the boxes we use to define our intricate intersections of race, nationality, gender, and sexuality.

The Education Outreach Program at About Face Theatre provides touring performances and workshops to schools as an entertaining, compelling, and necessary approach to starting dialogue about bullying, diversity, and intersecting identities.

2015/16 DONORS

About Face Theatre relies on individual, corporate, foundation, and government contributions from our community to support our mission to create exceptional and innovative theatre. Without this support, we would not be able to develop exciting new work in collaboration with the finest emerging and established artists in the nation nor would we be able to provide exceptional educational programming to LGBTQIA youth and their allies. Below is a list of our individual supporters who donated from September 1st, 2015 through August 31st, 2016.

We work diligently to keep our donor lists accurate and up-to-date. Please bring any unintentional errors, additions, or corrections to the attention of Ben Sprunger at ben@aboutfacetheatre.org.
